

Will Keen drop Toll?

GARY Toll, the Wycombe striker who has been struggling to regain his fine form of last season could find himself left out of the side to travel to Barking tomorrow (Saturday).

Toll, who does not look totally match fit despite playing in most of Wanderers games this season, has struggled for pace and might well be replaced.

Manager Mike Keen must be pleased with the recent performances of Steve Hardwick, who has been a reformed character since he was put on the transfer list.

The shock possibility of leaving Loakes Park has certainly stirred Hardwick into producing his best form, and cutting out the casual mistakes that used to mar his game. He has now been taken off the list and should prove an asset for the rest of the season.

Boss Cripps

Wanderers will be hoping to return to their goal scoring form against Barking, who have struggled since the departure of manager Eddie McCluskey and top players Peter Burton and Keith Barrett to Enfield in the close season.

Their new boss is the old Millwall favourite Harry Cripps, but he has not had a happy time since he took over. They are now in 20th place, but that is a slightly false position, as they have had two points deducted for picking an unregistered player. The club are currently appealing against that decision.

Barking's defensive record is the worst in the league and Wanderers will be aiming to make capital out of that.
